VICTIM'S BODY AFTER N. E. WOMAN CONFESSES SLAYING

GLASHEW AND HACKED TO DEATH

Officials and officers from New York had searched the farm and had decided to dig for the body which was buried in a hole that had been filled in recently.

State Officers Michael Smith and Max Christensen of Middletown did the digging. In about half an hour they came upon the body after removing an accumulation of heavy stones.

The body was cleared of the earth and in some other rubbish upon it and then lifted out and laid upon the ground. Dr. D. A. Fox, the medical examiner, was at once notified.

The officers then turned their attention to checking up the story Mrs. Tell told in New York yesterday and after they expressed their confidence that Mrs. Tell's story would be corroborated by facts.

The officers were of the opinion that Mrs. Tell must be strong, as Blair was a man weighing probably 165 pounds and it must have been quite a burden to get the body from the house to the pit.

Mrs. Tell told Bronx District Attorney M. C. O'Brien that she had killed Blair, whose housekeeper she had been for three years, when he insisted that she marry and a previous promise to marry him. She is a world veteran and Blair was taken apart from his wife, who resides in Brooklyn with their 15-year-old daughter.

THE KILLING WAS DONE TUESDAY.

WIFE WHO ACCUSES RICH WIDOW AS LOVE THIEF

MRS. LAURA BRADSTREET, FORMER ACTRESS, AS SHE LOOKS AT THE TRIAL OF HER $250,000 SUIT

Bradstreet, a Boston broker, on the witness stand in the attention suit, admitted that he had taken several trips with Mrs. Wallace, the wealthy Rochester (N. H.) widow, during the last year.

At 3 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, Bradstreet came into the house wearing a hat and a dark suit. He was followed by a woman who was carrying a large trunk. The woman was identified as Mrs. Wallace.

After consulting the crime to her mother, Francis J. Martin, a member of the House, Mrs. Tell finally decided to sue for her services. Her husband in the district at today's office was brief, but assuming to her feelings, she declared: "I am weary of men. I've had all I want of them."

The husband, she said, was a truck driver and former soldier who had married her.

Her life with him was a death at face, she said.

Her own passion was her death. She was a strong woman and there was a strong desire between the two.

FOR GIRLS' SARE.

It was to increase the girl's health that the mother went to live at the children's home in New York. Blair was continuously working for her. Blair was continuously working for her. Blair was continuously working for her.

The killing was done Tuesday.

Subpoenas will be issued and the witnesses brought to Washington to repeat their story before the Senate committee.

Public hearings will get under way next week.

COREY HILL SOCIETY FOLK FIGHT AGAINST TENEMENT HOUSE

CHARGE WOMAN BUILDER VIOLATES ZONING LAWS

In defiance of a town zoning law, which bars two-family houses from the fashionable Corey Hill district of Brookline, Mrs. Minnie Tucker is continuing work on a house, Brookline authorities declared today.

Action in court against Mrs. Tucker was postponed when Building Commissioner Ernest Lyon said from the town clerk's office that the zoning ordinance was not yet in effect.

Mrs. Tucker's permit to construct a two-family house at No. 122-124 Summit avenue was revoked after the law was passed at a town meeting last week. Sixteen others were also revoked.

The town authorities claim the permits could be withdrawn in all cases where work had not actually been started. Mrs. Tucker's previous house was nothing but a vacant lot on the day the law became effective, they assert.

Today gliders were being laid in place at the Summit avenue house when he investigated, Commissioner Lyon declared.

Either a Superior Court injunction or a complaint in municipal court will be sought, it is expected. Several other Brookline districts were retrofitted with Corey Hill to expensive single houses, under the terms of the zoning ordinance.

Counterfeit Bills Being Passed In Cambridge

Cambridge is having its share of the counterfeit $10 bills, which have been found in Chicago and other Illinois cities.

Edward Cohen, owner of a delicatessen store on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, discovered what police believe to be one of the most perfect counterfeit bills ever made.

Cohen found the bill when counting his money. He turned it over to the Cambridge police and they in turn sent it to a Boston bank.

Officials of the bank could detect only a slight irregularity. They said it had evidently been printed from a fine plate instead of a copper plate. This gave it a lighter color than is found in genuine bills.

FIND FACE MASK AND BULLETS ON LYNN SUSPECT

Police Believe Asa Hoeg Is One of a Band of Daring Holdup Men

In the arrest of Asa Hoeg, alleged "masked bandit," police believe they have in custody one of a gang of daring holdup men who have terrorized North Shore cities and towns for many months.

Lynn detectives arrested Hoeg in Salem on a warrant charging assault on George S. Dwyer, a Lynn storekeeper, who was held up by a masked man and robbed of $15 in cash and a gold watch last October.

A few weeks ago a white handkerchief with six eyeholes and a number of revolver bullets were found in Hoeg's pockets.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 11.—Dr. William F. Kelly, Los Angeles physician, was enjoying an unbroken sleep today after a series of physical experiments which he said kept him awake almost continuously for 59 days.

A police detail has been assigned to the factory. The men arrested are Antonio Valenzuela, of Los Angeles; Joseph H. Smith, of Portland, Ore.; and Daniel A. Smith, of San Francisco.

WIFE WHO SHOT HUSBAND NOW SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Katherine J. Mealey, Former Boston Policeman, Led Hectic Married Life

Mrs. Katherine J. Mealey, pretty Brookline domestic, seeks to end a hectic married life with Frank J. Mealey, former Boston policeman and champion prizefighter of 1914.

Mrs. Mealey came near ending her married life on another occasion. She fired two shots into his body on October 1, 1922, but the husband, who made six foot two inches, recovered.

This time, Mrs. Mealey seeks to rid herself of the husband by way of the Domestic Divorce court. She has filed a petition, alleging cruelty and neglect. The whereabouts of Mealey is unknown.

They were married in 1917, and the husband left a short time later for service overseas. Returning at the end of the war, he was appointed as the Boston police force at the time of the strike.

The job of policeman didn't last long and later Mealey was arrested for passing worthless checks.

Mrs. Mealey in the meantime had taken a position as maid at the home of Albert G. Place in Brookline. The couple quarreled and finally separated.

When Mealey appeared in his wife's room one afternoon and an argument ensued, Mrs. Mealey secured a revolver and shot Mealey through the arm and abdomen. She claimed her husband was attacking herself and her mother and she fired to save both their lives. She was released on probation when her husband recovered from his wounds.

"Fishy" Costumes to Mark Smart Set Submarine Ball, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

THE Submarine Ball set for the 25th suggests all manner of intriguing costumes.

The species—Pisces—has been very thoroughly studied to designate anything but brilliant "land-lubbers."

Fancy dress balls of a piscatorial nature are therefore quite novel. But under the inspiration of Joseph Lindon Smith, Boston's well-known artist, the committee feels very certain that aquatic verities have much to offer that is novel and amusing as well as pretty in the way of consuming.

Speaking of the garb in which the dancers plan to disguise themselves at the Submarine Ball, Miss Grace Ripley has some very "fishy" costumes which may be had at her florist-studio.

Also, Mr. Smith has designed a strictly aquatic piece of headgear which may be worn by way of fancy dress.

Mrs. Joseph Lindon Smith is another member of the Submarine Ball's committee, which includes such well-known folk as Henry G. Vaux, Jr., Mrs. Reginald Foster, Mrs. N. Panrose Hollowell, William Stanley Parker, F. Murray Forbes and Holier Abbott.

'EASY PICKINGS' IN BOSTON FOR BEGGARS

Professional Mendicants Travel Hundreds of Miles to Work Here, Raymond Says

Boston is rated among professional beggars and mendicants as an "A No. 1" "home," with little or no police interference and easy pickings. And a good "dumby-chucker" one who snaps his mouth and falls in "phony" fits is able to reap a harvest of nickels, dimes and quarters—even greenbacks—from big-hearted Bostonians.

So Stockton Raymond, general secretary of the Family Welfare Association, reported to a group of women at the Hotel Westminster meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Many of those "begging" in the streets of Boston, particularly those who have regular "stands" in the shopping district and outside Greater Boston factories on pay days, are non-residents and professionals. Mr. Raymond said: "They find their business a fascinating game." He said, "Thoroughly, only the police, the courts and the public encourage them because his man sympathies outdone to their defense when they are brought before the courts."
Raymond told of numerous instances where beggars traveled hundreds of miles from other cities in the country in order to "fatten their 'bankroll'" on the well-known indulgence of Boston people.

'WET' PLOT FOR CONVENTION IN CLEVELAND

Biggest Liquor Cleanup Since the Volstead Act; 400 Warrants Issued

Cleveland, April 11.—What is declared by United States District Attorney A. E. Bennett to be the biggest liquor cleanup in the "United States" since the enactment of the Volstead Act, was under way here today.

The arrests are the government's response, Bennett said, to charges made by local leaders of the Anti-Saloon League that a gigantic plot was on foot, in which Federal and county officials were participants, to make Cleveland "wet" for the Republican National Convention here in June.

More than thirty Federal agents have been at work for the past two months collecting evidence. Warrants were issued for the arrest of proprietors of 125 still drink places and 25 drugstores. Approximately 300 defendants are named.

Washington—There is one suspicion in Bureau and it is attracting so much attention that special police guards are kept in front of the shop which exhibits it to keep the crowd in order, the Commerce Department has been informed.
Washington—Examination of the Federal bankruptcy law to consider amendment to improve its administration is underway in a resolution introduced by Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee.

Congress Asked to Procure Release of De Valera

Washington, April 11.—A move to have Congress intercede to obtain the release from prison of Eamon De Valera, the Irish independence leader, was made by Representative Boylan, Democrat, of New York.
Boylan put in a resolution calling upon Secretary Hughes to furnish information in his possession bearing upon De Valera's imprisonment.

SPEED LIMIT DEVICE FOR AUTOS URGED

Another drive to put an end to automobile speeding was inaugurated in the House, when Speaker Hiram B. Ives introduced a resolution requiring all motor vehicles to be equipped with a device which would render excessive speed mechanically impossible in the State.
The measure is embodied in an order for a comprehensive study of the chief traffic violations of the United States to be made up of the Senate, the House, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Justice, and the Federal Reserve Board. The order went to the value committee.

KLAN MUST OBEY LAW, READING DECLARES

Middlesex District Attorney
Says Burning of Cross Not
Crave Breach of Peace

District Attorney Arthur K. Read will not tolerate any organization which takes the law in its own hands in Middlesex County.

Mr. Reading made this statement today when questioned about recent activities of the Ku Klux Klan in this district, the latest of which was the burning of a large cross at Waltham.

It also became known today that leaders of the Ku Klux Klan are being in Middlesex County, but these men are now out of the jurisdiction of the courts. Mr. Reading refused to talk about this matter.

When the activities of the Klan were called to his attention he said the burning of a cross or the holding of a meeting does not constitute any grave breach of the peace.

KLANSMEN ATTACKED.
"When any organization undertakes to administer the law or when any individual takes that right upon himself, you can be sure that I will take active steps," he declared.

From reports made to Middlesex County authorities it was learned that the return to the county of certain Klan leaders in recent "processions" was for nothing else.

In addition to burning the cross on the hill overlooking Waltham other activities of the Klan included the holding of a meeting at Shawmut beach, Rhode Island, which ended in a riot. Four Klansmen were beaten by angry residents of the town, who resented the presence of the outsiders in their town.

HAVE NO EVIDENCE.
Chief of Police McKenna of Waltham announced today that his department was not in the possession of evidence upon which to base further investigation of the reported gathering of Klansmen on Boston Hill last night.

Despite assertions made in Waltham today that the burning of the cross was "a joke or the work of boys," an examination of the burned cross at police headquarters revealed it to be of solid construction, strongly built and riveted.

Clean scrutiny of the ground on the sides and at the top of Boston Hill revealed footprints of hundreds of men.

Maine Klansmen Meet to Dehorne Farnsworth
Portland, Me., April 11.—Six hundred Cumberland County members of the Ku Klux Klan attended a meeting at Klan headquarters on Forest avenue, called by Dr. W. H. Witham, for the purpose of electing F. E. Farnsworth as King of the Maine Klans.

Farnsworth is declared to be organizing a new and independent order of women known as the Ladies of the Klan, a rival body to the official and "regular" Klans.

Farnsworth's daughter, Mabel, a high school girl, has joined the new organization, according to reports, and has been notified that she is no longer a member of the Klans.

Farnsworth made no attempt to attend the anti-Farnsworth meeting in his room at a local hotel. "Whatever action they may take," said the man who built the Klan in Maine, "I shall continue to reside in the State of Maine and will go on with my great work."

KLAN CROSS BLAZES ON WALTHAM HILL

FIERY EMBLEM OF HOODED KNIGHTS
Cross shown in photo was erected by Klansmen on Boston Hill, the highest point of land in Waltham. The blazing emblem was seen from all parts of the city. Police reached the scene as the glare of the cross died out. The officer in the picture is Patrolman Frank J. McGuire.

Today the burning of the cross was "a joke or the work of boys," an examination of the burned cross at police headquarters revealed it to be of solid construction, strongly built and riveted.

PARIS SEES POLITICS IN QUEEN MARIE'S VISIT

BORE TUNNEL IN JAIL DELIVERY ATTEMPT

Convicts in Pennsylvania Are Balked When Warden Finds
Nearly Completed Tube

Philadelphia, April 11.—An attempted jail delivery, which might have assumed serious proportions, was frustrated early today at the Eastern State Penitentiary by Deputy Warden Charles Rantze, who discovered a tunnel leading from the cell of Louis Glavin, alias Harry Lewis, and Harry Watson, alias George Francis Gorman, of Hartford, Ct., to within a few feet of the outer wall of the prison.

The tunnel extended under the prison yard and probably would have been completed tonight, when it is believed an exodus of many convicts had been planned. About a ton of dirt had been excavated by Glavin and Watson, who, it is estimated, had been at work on the tunnel more than a month with implements stolen from the stone pile in the prison yard.

Disposal of the dirt was accomplished by packing it in small bags and gradually pumping it down a drain pipe in their cell. Stones encountered in the into was broken into small pieces, concealed by the convicts on their persons and thrown on the dirt pile in the yard.

For light in their underground work the prisoners utilized a kerosene lamp from which the top had been removed and a piece of rag twisted in the shape of a wick, similar to a miner's lamp. As fuel they used oil stolen from the machine shop.

The tunnel consisted of a drip of sixteen feet below the surface of the cell floor and from there extended under the driveway for about twelve feet in the direction of Fairmount avenue. Floor boards in the corner of the cell had been cut with house blades.

TO EXTEND AIRSHIP FIELD IN E. BOSTON

At the session of the House of Representatives today the Ways and Means Committee reported a bill for grading and filling an additional area at the aircraft landing field in East Boston, no sum being mentioned.

Caught to pass was reported by the same committee on the resolve for the erection in the State House of a suitable memorial to the late Governor Samuel W. McCall.

The House ordered to a third reading the bill to pay the soldiers' bonus to women.

In the Senate the bill providing for the continuation of the New Series of Life Commission for four years was ordered to a third reading.

DAVES REPORT ACCEPTED BY COMMISSION

Allied Regard It as Good Basis for Final Settlement of Problem

Paris, April 11 (A.P.).—The reparations commission today officially approved the report submitted to it by the experts committee Wednesday on the German reparations question.

The recommendation of the commission is that the report be approved together with acceptance of it by Germany. The commission was unanimous in registering its approval. The reparations commission will hear the German representatives regarding the report on Thursday, April 17.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—An international conference, with the United States participating, to discuss a final reparations settlement upon the basis of the Daves report was forecast here today.

The first fruits of optimism that the problem would be solved through general acceptance of the Daves report in its original form gave way to doubts after advice had been received from Berlin and Paris.

Although Premier MacDonald has been studying the expert report since Wednesday, the official attitude of the British government has not yet been disclosed.

In quarters close to the government, French experts expressed the view that France would rate objections to the Daves plan because it does not fix a definite total of German payments.

This may mean that France will bring the question of allied war debts which might return the issue to the old vicious circle of endless discussions.

It is possible Premier MacDonald and Premier Poincaré may consult one another, either through exchange of messages or personally, before either nation makes a decisive move.

Information is given semi-officially that Great Britain does not wish to hurry things until after the general elections in France and Germany. Meantime something may happen which will cause the downfall of the Labette government of England.

VALUES WIFE'S UNEMPLOYED IN LOVE IN SUIT BAY STATE AT $5,000 NOT LARGE

Malden Jitney Owner Accuses U. S. Department of Labor
Medford Man of Heart
Piracy Sizes Up Conditions in Massachusetts

Joseph Hart, Malden jitney bus owner, values his wife's love at $5,000. It was revealed when he filed suit for alleged alienation of affection, against Charles Silliker, of No. 11, Erie street, Medford.

He alleges in his complaint that Mrs. Silliker, formerly Hart, lived in and in addition took some of the Hart household money without Hart's permission.

The case is a sequel to Mrs. Hart's suit for divorce, filed in Middlesex Superior Court last month. She charged cruelty and stated her husband began treating her rough seven months after their marriage in February, 1912.

CHARGES SHE LEFT HOME.
On October 20, 1912, according to the suit brought by the jitney owner, Silliker caused her to leave the Hart home in Malden and succeeded in getting her to stay away.

While she was living at home Mrs. Hart also took certain sums of money without her husband's consent, he asserts. In addition Silliker also took certain sums away for his own use, it is charged.

When Mrs. Hart started suit for divorce she had an attachment for $50,000 placed on Hart's property. GETS PARTICULAR.
The jitney has never asked for particulars. He got them in the shape of a long list of things he is supposed to have done to his wife, including:

slapped her face, broke her eyeglasses, threw dishes, a razor and a loaded revolver at her, threw her on the floor, kicked her, jumped on her and threatened her life.

In addition he used profane language, according to Mrs. Hart.

Business fell off for a few minutes during the early morning hours today at Joe and Nemo's hot dog parlor at the corner of Howard street and Hot Dog alley, while John George of Waverley and Joseph Evans of Bulfinch street, Boston, indulged in a bottle battle. Business Will Boom in New England This Summer if We Let the World Know How Wonderful New England Is.

12,000 Farms Lost to Maine; Tanning and Ice Harvesting Gone; Fishing Going, Yet Maine Minute Men Bring 700,000 Tourists to Spend $52,000,000 in One Season

HIRAM RICKER, as his name might imply, is one of Maine's sturdy patriots. Three years ago he had a vision. He saw what was happening to Maine.

Maine's chief source of wealth is her farms. In 1910 Maine had 72,000 farms worth about three hundred million dollars. Ten years later 12,000 farms had disappeared. Twenty per cent. of the farmers and their families had gone. One in every four farm laborers had vanished.

Hiram Ricker rode out on the Maine roads and found abandoned farms—not farms for sale for rent but farms that were deserted and useless as a body from which the soul had flown.

The State assessors had a list of 3,520 farms from which they could not collect taxes because the owners had fled. They could not sell them for taxes because nobody would buy them. Drive out any Maine road in sixteen counties and you can spot them weedy, unkept, with rotting fences, caving roofs, paneless windows—ghost farms.

Hiram Ricker checked up on other of Maine's past glories. Once the Maine ice harvests cooled the eastern sea coast. Ice was shipped across the seas. Ice factories in the cities had wiped that industry out.

Once Maine led the country in its tanning industry. That had gone. The fishing was going. The paper making industry was meeting with competition.

Maine was facing the situation that faces all New England. Her mills and factories are so far removed from the sources of supply in cotton, hides, wool, metals.

Hiram Ricker thought something ought to be done. There were others in Maine who thought the same thing. Governor Baxter is one. He had received some startling information from a furniture mover, a Mr. Jeans whose vans haul the moveables of the people of Portland.

"I've packed the goods of fifty Portland families this Spring," said Mr. Jeans. "They're moving from Portland out to California."

"California? That's a winter resort! Why should people move from Maine, one of the greatest Summer resorts on the face of the globe to California in the Summer time?"

That was a subject for investigation. And this is what the investigation disclosed:

California is making so much money out of the tourist business in winter, that it has gone out after tourists in Summer.

Three hundred sixty-five million dollars, more than the total value of all Maine's farms, was left in Southern California by 700,000 tourists during the months of May, June, July and August of last year.

They should have been spending their Summer vacations in New England, the greatest Summer playground in America, but they went to California instead, lured by the enticing advertising of California's All Year Round Club.

Forty-one million dollars had been spent by tourists in Northern Minnesota last Summer by tourists who had been lured there by the Ten Thousand Lakes Association.

The Ten Thousand Lakes Association was an organization of land owners whose timber had been cut away, whose paper industry had flown, whose land was not suitable for wheat, and who started out to spend $10,000 a year for publicity to entice the Summer tourist up to Minnesota's lakes.

Fifteen Million Dollars in new housing had been erected in the neighborhood of Miami, Florida, and the 29,571 beings who reside in that city had spent $600,000—two dollars each for every man, woman and child residing there, to invite people to go to Florida and live in them. Florida is so confident she builds first and gets tenants later.

The people of twenty-six towns in Florida actually levy a tax upon themselves to spend money in advertising the delights of their homeland. Result, Florida's gain in population leads all the States in the Union.

Three hundred million dollars was spent in a season by the Summer tourists to Canada, which so astounded the Canadians that Parliament has voted an expenditure of $500,000 for advertising to draw the Hivering American across the border for the Summer months.

Canada estimates that a two weeks' tourist is worth $100 to the community visited.

Thirty million dollars was left in the State of Wisconsin by visitors from other States, last Summer, and the City of Milwaukee officially assessed

The picture shows a typical street in Leipzig, Germany, during this Spring's merchants' fair. Not a new building, not a hotel had been erected here since the start of the war in 1914. Yet hundreds of thousands of French, English, Americans flocked there this Spring to see Germany at play and Germany at work. Every house in Leipzig offered itself $15,000 to spend in advertising the delights of the Dells, Eagle River, and muskie fishing, depending for its returns upon the short stops the tourists might make there on the flight northward.

There is one city in Wisconsin that has been so thoroughly advertised to the people of New Orleans and vicinity that 3,000 Southern families move up there every season during the hot Summer months.

Seven hundred thousand dollars has been set aside by the State of Colorado to entice the Summer tourist to Pike's Peak and vicinity because that State believes that Summer tourists leave $300,000,000 there every year.

One hundred thousand motor cars from the State of Indiana alone are estimated by a semi-official license count to have crossed the border into Colorado last Summer.

A half million tourists are believed to have left $500,000,000 in Oregon last Summer. The City of Portland has assessed itself $300,000 to lure the Summer vacationist into that State.

The Pacific Coast States have lured themselves to so direct their publicity that all of the coast States will be included in the vacationist's itinerary. They want them all the year round and they are getting them. Twenty-six per cent. of the population of the City of Los Angeles consists of people from the State of Iowa. Originally they were enticed for the vacationist's visit. Now they have settled down.

The Minute Men of Maine came to the conclusion that the whole vacation habits of the American people, thanks to the automobile, have been changed. In the old days the vacationist took a train to the lakes, woods or mountains and stayed at a lodging house or hotel until the period was over.

Now, with the call of Summer, a big proportion of the 110,000,000 citizens of the United States climb into the family automobile and move away from home. The motor has made us migratory. One hundred miles a day for ten days will carry the tourist over a large bit of landscape.

rooms for the visitors. Every vacant building was part of the fair. Heavy machinery was exhibited in the parks. The city blazed with color. And the Germans with their cutlery, aluminum ware, marbles, textiles, airplanes, radio and electric goods, head bags, rugs, silks and leather goods, said "Look at us, Beaten, but Winning!"

Boston could beat Leipzig.

It is not necessary to build million dollar hotels to lure the tourist. A camping place is sufficient.

The Publicity Bureau of the State of Maine raised $30,000 to be spent in newspapers outside the State and folders to be mailed. It mailed out 35,000 pieces of literature that year. It established headquarters at Longfellow square, Portland.

It spread the gospel of the pine woods, Mount Katahdin, Poland Spring, the Maine Lakes, the yachting, boating and trout and salmon fishing.

Tourists from every State in the Union flocked to Maine. In 1923 they increased the appropriation to $35,000 and distributed 92,000 pieces of literature.

More than 600 tourists a day called at the office of the Portland bureau throughout the Summer. For information. Two big Maine hotels registered 14,000 guests. They came from every State in the Union and from Tasmania, India, France, England, Scotland, Alaska and Norway.

Maine's tourist business last year amounted to forty-five million dollars—one-fifth the value of all her farms.

Other New England States profited from Maine's success in advertising campaign.

Two hotels in Boston, according to Gov. Baxter, frankly admitted that they had lost money during the months of July and August, up to 1923. The year of 1923 ushered in a Summer profit which they attributed to visitors coming from the south and west as a result of the Maine advertising. They stopped over night in Boston.

Europe analysts say that every tourist spends one-third of his vacation money in the purchase of goods. The automobile army scatters its money. The vacationist is a bigger spender than the one who stays at home. Often the savings of a year go in a short vacation. Every dollar expended to lure the tourist if only for an overnight stay will return, bringing hundreds of companions. That's what they all say, California, Florida, Oregon and other States have been settled by the tourists. Even buyers go where they can combine business with pleasure.

Maine is blazing the way for New England. But Gov. Baxter is not satisfied. Here is what he says:

"In Florida they put up their hotels, apartment houses and bungalows, plan their entertainment and then go and get the people to come there, through newspapers, magazines, beautifully printed booklets and other publicity media.

"They don't do as we are apt to do up here in Maine, wait until people are knocking at our door trying to get in. They are 'go-getters'; are we sit tighters?"

Other than the advertising done by the railroads, two or three Chambers of Commerce in a small way, and a few hotels, about the only advertising money spent for Maine is the $30,000 spent by the State of Maine Publicity Bureau last year. And remember that this is spent for the entire State not for a single city. The city of Miami, Florida, alone (with population of 29,571) spent twice that amount. This State should spend at least $100,000, half of it to be raised by taxation to be levied on roadside billboards.

The other half of this $100,000 should be subscribed by those who get the direct returns such as the transportation lines, hotels, garages, the wholesale grocers, produce dealers, farmers, hotel equipment outfitters and other lines of trade who sell to those who board the tourists and by those who sell to the tourist direct, in clothing, toilet articles, fruits, candy, reading matter, souvenirs, etc.

"It is admitted that Maine has industrial opportunities that should be developed, but how better can we get people to Maine to make investments than by bringing them here for a vacation and show them what we have?"

The assessed valuation in resident real estate for Piscataquis County shows an increase of 95 per cent., whereas the assessed valuation in non-resident real estate (property owned by people who come here for the Summer vacation period) shows an increase from $593,371 in 1892 to $3,216,590 in 1920, or a gain of 442 per cent.

In personal estate the resident assessed valuation shows a gain of 106 per cent., whereas the non-resident assessed valuation shows a gain of 1,218 per cent.

That is equally true of Penobscot, Hancock and other resort counties.

There is one family that comes to Proulx Neck, Maine, every Summer from Montreal, whose bill for fruit alone last Summer averaged $175 a month. This family is at their Summer home at Proulx Neck for seven months in the year and their monthly average expenditure is $5,000, or $34,000 for the season.

"What farmer's family that might be induced to settle on an abandoned Maine farm could spend anywhere near $25,000 in one year?"

The Summer tourist business of the State of Maine, which last year (1923) brought into the State 700,000 tourists and $52,000,000 and left it here, is the greatest asset the State has, no matter how you look at it.

"Are we going to look after and cultivate this tourist travel, expand it and have a new awakening before this great Summer business has slipped over the border into Quebec, the White Mountains, the Adirondacks or clear across the continent to California? That's why we must wake up!"

Last week we told you of how every "Devastated Country" in Europe was snaring American dollars with their Vienna, Leipzig, Brussels, Lyons, Venice, Munich and Hamburg Merchants' Fairs. These fairs last for weeks. They have the exhibits housed about the cities in the parks, public buildings, theatres, howling alleys and stores.

They combine recreation with merchandizing. And they influenced our trade balance a billion dollars last season.

New England should unite in a campaign to bring the tourists here.

Boston should hold a New England Summer Fair. We should bring the buyers here. We have the greatest Summer climate in the world. We have the most beautiful scenery. We've got everything. Broadcast it!

There are millions in Florida, the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, and the western and even 'the north countries who would come here every year if we could make them realize the beauty, the variety, the good New England cookery, the romance, the rich historical glory the recreation, the health of New England . . . and the MONEY THAT CAN BE MADE HERE.
